PUBLIC HEALTH AGAIN.

Not only Hawaiians, but people of all nations and countries, are slow to learn how much their destinies are in their own power. Nevertheless, it is a fact that the greater portion of the calamities that afflict human-kind are directly and obviously the work of man's own hand; and those calamities must be remedied by man's exertion, or remain in force. It cannot be expected that the Hawaiian—but recently brought under the influence of civilization—should have advanced so far in the realization of this fact as the European or American. Yet no sanitary improvement worthy of the name will be effected among Hawaiians until they are deeply convinced that improvement is attainable, that it is desirable, and that it must come from themselves. Acts of the Legislature and vigilance of public officers—however wise and necessary they may be—will fail in their object unless a real and intelligent interest in the matter can be created among the people at large. Although administrative measures can do a great deal for public health, they can never supersede the necessity of personal and private care. The Board of Health may use its utmost exertions—and it is its duty to do so—may judiciously expend every cent of money at its command, and in every possible way strive to fulfill its mission; but the people cannot be made cleanly, or healthy, or profligate against their will or without their intelligent and hearty co-operation. This is why every means should be used to arouse the people to a state of active earnestness.

LEGISLATIVE.

Thursday, July 6.—Mr. Palohau presented a resolution asking that $1,500 be inserted in the Appropriation Bill for building a Court House and jail at Kawaihau, Kauai. The resolution was laid on the table to be considered with the Appropriation Bill.

There being nothing more under the head of Resolutions or Bills, the House then proceeded with the Order of the Day.

The first under this head was the third reading of an act to amend Chapter 3 of the Laws of 1878, relating to passports, which, after some discussion, was finally passed with a few amendments.

The act to amend sections 64, 65 and 66 of the Civil Code, relating to auctioneer's license was, with a few amendments, passed.

The act to amend section 11 of Chapter 55 of the Penal Code, relating to dancing houses, was read a third time and passed.

On suspension of the rules, Mr. Rice read for the first time an act relating to people who enter without permission the premises of Female Seminaries.

On the further suspension of the rules, the same bill was read a second time by its title and referred to a select Committee, consisting of Hons. Rice, Preston, Pilipo, Richardson and Widemann.

The Finance Committee laid before the House the Report of Mr. J. O. Carter, as one of the experts employed by that Committee to look into the books and accounts of the Finance Department. The Report stated that the Minister of Finance, as reported, did carry and count as cash for a considerable length of time large sums of public money in ordinary bank checks. The Committee, in their Report, stated that they considered this matter unwarranted by law and reprehensible.

This Report was signed by Hons. H. A. Wideman, A. S. Cleghorn, J. Nawahi, G. E. Richardson, and J. L. Kaulukou.

The House then took a recess till 2 p. m.

At 2 p. m. the House again resumed business.

The third reading of an Act to designate an additional place at which to hold the Circuit Court 3rd Judicial Circuit for the Island of Hawaii, was passed.

The third reading of an Act to regulate the slaughter and sale of beef, passed.

The second reading of an Act to authorize a Ten Million Loan, introduced by Mr. Liliuokalani.

Mr. Keau moved that the Bill pass to engrossment.

Mr. Kalua, with a strong argument, moved that the Bill be indefinitely postponed.

Mr. Kaulukou moved that it be referred to a special committee.

Mr. Aholo was in favor of referring it to a special committee.

Messrs. Nawahi and Kaunamano spoke in favor of indefinitely postponing it.

Mr. C. R. Bishop spoke against the Bill, and hoped that the House would pass the motion to indefinitely postpone.

Mr. Widemann was in favor of postponing.

After further discussion, the previous question was called for and carried.

Mr. Pilipo moved that the ayes and noes be taken. Carried.

The motion to indefinitely postpone was then put, which resulted as follows: Ayes, 15; Noes, 25.

The motion to refer the bill to a special committee of eleven was then carried. The Committee are Hons. Preston, Kaulukou, Liliuokalani, Bush, Aholo, Cleghorn, Aiwahi, Kalua, Pahia, Kauai, and Nakaleka.

On suspension of the rules, the Minister of Finance read, for the second time by its title, an Act to authorize a National Loan, and to define to what uses such loan shall be devoted, which was referred to the same Committee as above.

The House then adjourned till to-day at 10 a. m.

EDITOR BULLETIN:—The Saturday Flagellator had an article in its issue of the 24th, headed "Disgraceful Conduct." It stated that several Lunanukaleanians who had more regard for their pockets, &c., endeavored to have the House prorogued in order to be enabled to touch an extra $500 and stigmatized the mover, Mr. Keau, as shameless. Yet that cannot possibly be true, for the poor man is not devoid of feeling for himself. Witness his conduct on being ridiculed in the Ku-o-loa that proves he is not "ironclad"—in fact has had but little experience and is not aware of the fact that to be called a lunatic, a fit candidate for an asylum, &c., is rather an honor than otherwise showing that the person so stating must have believed Mr. Keau to possess something more than the animal instincts at some past time. The same reporter might possibly say that any animal besides man would endeavor to obtain loaves and fishes, whether honestly his or not; true, but in the 19th century we generally look upon a man who is devoid of any feeling excepting for himself, and will get money honestly if he can, &c., as rather smart. Again let me ask, what constitutes statesmanship? Let him take Prince Kaunui's own words, the words of one of the greatest statesmen who ever lived—in "Ferrand's History of the Dis-membrement of Poland," where he admits the necessity of being six different things which I refrain from naming so as not to hurt Mr. Keau's feelings, by causing it to be publicly known that he is incapable of ever vieing in the smallest degree that statesman for cleverness. What shall I say? Ah! Kaunui, a man does require brains! Oh, dear! If Mr. Keau would only see himself as others see him he would rush frantically from the scene and the halls would know him no more. Trickery to be successful must have brains to back it up. It is well-known that the leading statesmen have not always been the honestest or purest men. In fact, the reverse; for dissimulation, and chicanery are requisites, as witness European ministers, and to have and wield those powers with cool discretion requires a head which contains some brains.

Again, there are different stages of lunacy; all men are more or less mad on some point; there is not an actually sane man in the world, or he would not do many things he is guilty of daily. This leads us to Mr. Keau. What form of insanity is it he is accused of by this reporter? Possibly that of imagining himself a born statesman. Well let the poor man enjoy it; it does not hurt him, and will not hurt you to let him ride his hobby-horse as long as he is kept from buying new harness for it too often, and let Mr. Keau soothe his injured feelings, smooth his ruffled plumes by the well-known fact that the head of the Ministry has been still worse handled and has grown fat on the subject plainly showing that it is not honesty Hawaiians want but brains, but that dishonesty without brains is a crime.

The Resources of California says—"Is it not better for the welfare of the citizens of San Francisco to pay even one cent a pound more for sugar to Claus Spreckels than to purchase that manufactured in the East? The difference is just this: Claus Spreckels, in the refining of sugar, gives support to more than five hundred families in San Francisco. Is this not a source of great benefit to our citizens generally? We say yes! Most decidedly. If we had one hundred more just such enterprising men as Claus Spreckels, California would soon have three times her present population, and hundreds of millions of dollars more invested in manufactures—the great need of California. We have known Mr. Spreckels for many years, and a more straight-forward, honorable man, lives not in the State."
